

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

Numerous embodiments of a method of operating a network switch are disclosed. In one embodiment, such a method comprises receiving electronic data on a first port of a data networking device, deleting at least a portion of the electronic data prior to providing the electronic data to the memory of the data networking device, and modifying the electronic data prior to providing at least a portion of the electronic data to a second port.